CARR BLOCK

The new Carr Block, at the corner of Harrison avenue and Market street, is one of the most elaborate structural ornamentations of our already picturesque city. None but the most skillful builders were employed in its construction, and Mr. Carr can justly feel proud of his magnificent 6-story structure, towering above others surrounding it. The interior elaboration, which is an acme of skill, is a befitting accompaniment to its beautiful exterior; and it would prove to be a fruitless effort to try to find another structure in our entire municipality so well adapted to the business and official purposes for which it has been erected. The basement, which is quite spacious and remarkably well lighted, contains a 50-horse boiler and steam-heating plant to render comfort to the upper apartments in cold weather. The ground floor is subdivided into three stores of ample dimensions, with essential conveniences, and which, like the rest of the extensive interior, are finished in ash with durable floors of hard wood. One of the most useful and noteworthy adjuncts is the splendid, rapid-running passenger elevator that fully equals, and perhaps eclipses, the best in the city. As a person ascends to the upper floors he is naturally impressed with the great width of the halls, and the remarkable lightness of the same. The second, third and fourth floors are conveniently proportioned into offices of various dimensions to suit the professional requirements of the various tenants, some being arranged singly and others in suites, each suite being provided with stationary bowls, having hot and cold water connections. No pains have been spared in the elegant finish of the toilet-rooms of each floor, tiled flooring and marble partitions being appropriately used in unsparing liberality and befitting taste of arrangement. The first stair case is of marble, a noticeable improvement on several similar designs elsewhere, while those above are of iron with that convenient tread of sheet-lead so much appreciated by the professional public, and so generally adopted in the immense and palatial office buildings of New York and Boston.

HAYNES & CO.

Clothiers, Tailors, Hatters and Furnishers, 346 and 348 Main street.

The house of Haynes & Co. has stood for reliable values and honorable dealing for fifty years, and is still continuing in the same old lines. New blood and new energy is being continually worked into the business, so that to-day they are still progressing, being careful, however, never to deviate from the old path of reliability.

This concern is particularly well adapted to take care of the Clothing wants of every one. If the Ready-made Department does not supply just the wanted article, the large Custom Department stands ready to fill the want.

The Boys' Department is a store in itself, and the stock carried is larger and more comprehensive than is ordinarily found in any store, no matter where situated.

The Furnishing and Hat Departments are large and comprehensive, and models of their kind.

In every department and section of this tremendous business the watchword is always Reliability.
